PRINCE KUHIO MAY ATTACK IN COURT TRUST CONTROLLING ESTATE OF QUEEN

Legal Move to Revoke Trust Deed is Reported Brewing—
Queen Said to Desire to Give Him Her Beach Property But
Terms of Trust Prevent, in Opinion of Trustees

Legal attack is shortly to be made on the Liliuokalani Trust, under which Queen Liliuokalani's estate is managed and all her affairs handled, according to information which has reached the Star-Bulletin from several authentic sources. It is said on good authority that Prince J. Kuhio Kalanianoʻe, Hawaii's delegate to Congress, is planning, through his attorneys, to attack the validity of the Liliuokalani trust deed, executed in 1909, and to force its revocation if possible.

Delegate Kuhio declined to talk about the matter at all today, saying that he knows nothing of it. From other sources the information comes that the matter is assuming definite shape and that a well known law firm will be retained to represent the prince.

As the story comes to the Star-Bulletin, the queen not long ago desired to give to Prince Kuhio her Waikiki beach property known as "Kalanianoʻe," which is across Kalanianaʻe avenue from the prince's Waikiki home and spacious grounds. This beach property, under the trust deed of 1910, was reserved by the queen for her uses during her life. It is said that she has strongly desired to give this property to Prince Kuhio, but that the trustees of the estate felt themselves unable, under the strict terms of the trust deed, to turn over the property to Kuhio in a manner that was satisfactory to him.

Therefore, according to the rumor, the prince has decided to test the validity of the trust deed. If it should be revoked, the queen, it is presumed, would be at liberty to make any disposition of this and other property she desired, subject of course to other obligations against the property.

Trust Deed Made in 1909.
The trust deed, which placed all of the queen's property in the care of three trustees, was made on December 2, 1909. A. S. Cleghorn, now dead; W. O. Smith and C. P. Iaukea being named as the trustees. The deed conveyed to them in trust all the property of the queen, reserving to her, on use during her life her town residence, the named Washington place, on Berea street, and the premises at Waikiki, known as "Kalanianoʻe."

The deed also set forth numerous bequests to be made at the time of her death and in conjunction with the deed there was filed a will specifying in detail the bequests.

Under the trust deed, after the queen's death, all property and income not otherwise disposed of is to go to the benefit of orphan children in the islands, the preference to be given to those of pure-Hawaiian or part-Hawaiian blood.

Deed Under Attack Before.
Early in 1910 there was begun a legal effort in the name of the queen to revoke this deed and annul the trust it created. On January 21, 1910, the queen filed an instrument in Washington, D. C., revoking the trust deed and asking recovery of her legal title to all property described in the deed and by it conveyed to the trustees. John Dominis Almoka and Joseph K. Aea, two of the principal beneficiaries under the deed, joined with her in this notice filed in Washington.

This was followed by the publication in newspapers of the territory the formal demand for revocation of the deed and return of title to property, the notice being published on February 10 and 11, 1910.

A few days later another legal step was taken. Through her attorneys, Thompson, Clemens & Wilder (as the firm was then named), the queen filed an equity suit in Judge Robinson's court asking that the trust deed be revoked and that her property be legally reconveyed to her.

In this bill of complaint the queen declared her belief that the trust deed was in the nature of testamentary disposition of property, and that she

KLAW MAKES CONTRACT IN THREE SENTENCES

How Marc Klaw, the theatrical magnate, in three sentences engaged Hawaii's foremost musical octette for a tour of the United States is told by the island singers here today on their way to New York, says the San Francisco Call of November 10.

Two months ago Klaw was leaning on the deck rail of a steamer leaving Honolulu. As the gangplank was drawn in the octette serenaded a departing friend.

"Do you want to go on the stage in the United States?" he shouted Klaw.

The reply was in the affirmative. "You'll hear from me," he shouted.

Two weeks ago they did. A cablegram read, "Report at New York November 20 for 40 week's engagement."

F BOATS BADLY SEA BATTERED ON LONG TRIP

All of Crews Seasick, and Towing Lines Broke; Divers Submerged By Waves

"Battling for 13 out of the 15 days of their 2100-mile trip from Honolulu with heavy gales and mountainous seas, during which every man on board the mosquito fleet was seasick and some on the larger towing vessels were in the same condition, the three submarines F-1, F-2 and F-3 arrived in port here yesterday afternoon," says the San Francisco Chronicle of November 14.

"Outside the heads the submarines cast off their towing lines and at a 10-mile clip came through the Golden Gate and swung around for the dash to Mare Island and anchorage in placid waters after their storm-swept experience."

Former Trip Easy.
"More than a year ago the little craft, with the ill-fated F-4 also, started for permanent station at Pearl Harbor. On that occasion the undersized craft were towed to Honolulu by the cruisers Maryland and South Dakota, two trips being made and two of the mosquitoes taken along, astern, each trip. The trip to Hawaii was through smooth seas practically all the distance."

"Homeward bound to San Francisco, the three surviving submarines were battered and dashed around by the

TANJONG OLOK TO PAY REGULAR DIVIDENDS NOW

Another of the stocks listed on the Honolulu exchange, Tanjong Olok, has entered the ranks of steady dividend payers.

Directors of the company have voted a special dividend of 20 cents per share, or $3000, a 1 per cent dividend, payable on December 1 of this year.

Simultaneous announcement is made that the directors have voted that beginning January 1 the company will pay on the first of each and every month a dividend of 10 cents per share. The latter will amount to $1500 monthly, or $18,000 a year, and puts the issue on a regular 6 per cent basis, the company being capitalized at $300,000, divided into 15,000 shares with a par value of $20 per share.

The last recorded sale of the stock on the exchange here was at $21 per share. This morning $21 was bid, with no offerings.

NEUTRALITY RULE BADLY VIOLATED AT SCHOOL IN KAIMUKI

An aggravated breach of neutrality has been committed at Honolulu School for Boys, Kaimuki, and Principal Blackman, whose lounging suit is a general's uniform, may deem himself lucky if he is not summoned to Fort Ruger, nearby, for trial by court-martial.

The Russian bear, lately imported by Gen. Sam Johnson of the National Guard of Hawaii, has been and gone and eaten up the Thanksgiving turkey. A special wireless telephone to the Star-Bulletin this afternoon says that the assassination of the Moslem bird is regarded throughout the Seaview tract as having created a grave situation that is liable to make ducks and drakes of next Thursday's dinner at the school.

GENERAL MURRAY AND WIFE PLANNING VISIT

Major-General Arthur Murray and Mrs. Murray have announced to friends on the coast that they intend to come to Honolulu soon for a visit of several weeks' duration.

While they are in Hawaii their son-in-law and daughter, Lieut. and Mrs. Conger Pratt, will occupy their home at Fort Mason. General Murray commands the western department, with headquarters at San Francisco.

PINEAPPLE DAY BIG SUCCESS IN COAST CITIES

Islands Obtained Large Amount of Newspaper Publicity By Unique Observance

FIVE THOUSAND CANS GIVEN AWAY AT FAIR

Mrs. C. H. Rose, Wife of Sheriff, Proves Fine Booster for Fruit at Los Angeles

Great sheaves of clippings from mainland newspapers reached the Star-Bulletin, attesting to the enormous amount of valuable publicity given to the islands on Pineapple Day, November 10, when the fruit was featured all over the mainland, thanks to a careful advertising campaign boosted by the Hawaiian Pineapple Canners' Association and the Promotion Committee.

At the San Francisco Exposition the day was especially featured, 5000 lots and 5000 cans of pineapples being given away in the horticultural building. In the evening a special concert was given in the Court of Abundance, in which 20 Hawaiian musicians participated, as well as the Philippine Constabulary Band.

"Pineapple day was a great success," writes C. D. Wright of the Star-Bulletin, who is now on the coast. "The Constabulary band played in the Court of Abundance, and Mrs. Worthington sang Joe Redding's 'Song to Hawaii.' 'I like no a Like, and Aloha Oe.' Each number was encored. Charles Clark made a big hit with 'Lay My Head Beneath a Rose.' There must have been 20,000 people in the audience. The Hawaii building was filled all day. The fish exhibit is still good, and the music boys make a hit."

"The fair is beautiful beyond description. One has to keep kicking one's self on the ankle to realize that it is not the next world."

Many mainland newspapers carried articles both long and short on pineapples, the canning industry, and on Hawaii and its charms on Pineapple Day, pointing out that the pineapple canning industry has increased from an output of 48,000 cans in 1901 to more than 60,000,000 cans in 1915.

The following, from the Los Angeles Express, which printed a three column cut of Mrs. Rose cutting a large pine for two children, is typical of the sort of publicity given to Hawaii by mainland newspapers on November 10:

"In almost every home in the United States the golden fruit of Aloha land is being served today in some form or another."

"It is Pineapple day and that delicious fruit from far-away Hawaii is forming the principal portion of American menus."

"For months progressive boosters from Hawaii have been educating the people of the United States in the appetizing qualities of the fruit. The result is there are few persons who are not aware of the fact that pineapples are a food 'fit for the gods,' and that today has been set aside for common mortals to partake of them."

"Railroads, steamship companies, hotels and restaurants are serving pineapples on their menus today. For several days the stores have made special inducements for the home folks to stock up on the luscious fruit."

"One of the enthusiastic boosters for Pineapple day is Mrs. C. H. Rose, wife of Sheriff Rose of Honolulu. Mrs. Rose is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Loomis, 635 East Washington street. Mr. Loomis is jailer at the University police station. Mrs. Rose's husband, when he is not attending to police duties, cultivates a 12-acre ranch, devoted principally to pineapples."

"Today Mrs. Rose cut a pineapple for Nettie Louise and Evelyn Mayne Howell, little grandchildren of Jailer Loomis."

BIG BLOCK OF M'BRYDE BONDS SOLD ON CHANGE

One of the largest single deals recorded on the sheets of the Honolulu Stock and Bond Exchange this year is a listed between boards sale of $30,000 worth of five per cent bonds of the McBryde Sugar Company, which changed hands at par, $100 each.

The company at one time had outstanding its full authorized issue of $2,000,000 in bonds, but the amount outstanding now is more than a quarter of a million less than that figure—$1,743,000 to be exact.

Walua was up half a point this morning, backed by a good stiff demand, and Oahu Sugar showed a small fractional gain, while Oloa is down a trifle. Oloa bonds, a 6 per cent issue, were also traded in, a $3000 block going at $92.50.

REPUBLICAN AID TO BE ASKED ON PLAN OF DEFENSE

President Fully Prepared to Make Non-Partisan Appeal For Support

KITCHIN WON'T OPPOSE INCREASE IN EXPENSES

Declines to Vote for New Appropriations But is Willing to Frame Bill

[Associated Press by Federal Wireless] WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 22.—It is learned that in his annual message President Wilson will indicate how in his opinion the money may be provided for the national defense program and will urge that it be raised.

A number of Democratic leaders oppose any plan of a bond issue of the government under present conditions.

By C. S. ALBERT.

(Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence) WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 11.—It is the intention of President Wilson to make the national defense program non-partisan in every way. By so doing he expects to obtain strong Republican support both in the Senate and House. An announcement of the President's intention was made at the White House today. It was said that in pursuing this course he will confer alike with leaders of both parties and consult them regarding his plans for bettering the army and navy. It is the desire of the President not to draw party lines on so vital an issue at this time.

No date has been fixed for the conferences with the Republican congressmen but they will take place within the next few weeks.

It is believed that the President will confer with Minority Leader Mann of the House, Senator Gallinger of the Senate and the heads of the House and Senate committees on naval and military affairs. Senator Henry A. DuPont of Delaware is ranking Republican of the Senate committee on military affairs; Senator Boies Penrose of Pennsylvania is ranking minority senator on the Senate naval affairs committee; Representative Julius Kahn of

ARMED BURGLAR GRABS GUN FROM OWNER OF HOUSE

Desperado Thought to Be Ye
Yo Keuk Walks Fearlessly
Up and Takes Weapon

Walking fearlessly up to K. Segawa while the latter held a loaded rifle pointed at him, a burglar who is believed to be Ye Yo Keuk, the notorious Korean desperado, this morning took Segawa's gun and escaped from the house with several dollars taken from Segawa's boy. Segawa is a contractor and lives at Weaver and Berea streets.

Waking up this morning at 2:30 when his alarm clock rang, Segawa's boy saw a man standing at the foot of his bed with two revolvers in his hands. The man ordered the lad to be quiet, and forced him to open the bureau drawers while he searched them. Finding no money, the robber went into the room of Segawa and from the lad's trousers, which were lying on the foot of Segawa's bed, took $3.

Segawa crept from bed when the bandit's back was turned and picking up a 22 caliber rifle pointed it at him and commanded him to stop. Instead of obeying, the burglar pointed both revolvers at Segawa and walking calmly to him took his rifle away, carried it to the next room, and then backed through the door and escaped. Policemen Poaka and Siamore responded to a phone call from Segawa but found no trace of the bandit. The description of the man given by Segawa is identical with that of the Korean bandit, Ye Yo Keuk, and the police are certain it was he who entered the house.

HONOLULU OIL SELLS FOR $2 AT 'FRISCO
For the first time in about three years stock of the Honolulu Consolidated Oil Company touched $2 per share today, and sold readily for that price in San Francisco, according to advices received from the coast. Last summer the issue was to be had at $1.50 per share, and last week it stood at $1.85. Large blocks and many small, scattered holdings are owned in Honolulu and other parts of the islands.

Baron Stefan De Surian, Austrian foreign minister, who is working in conjunction with the German diplomats to win Rumania as an ally of the central empires in the war.

SERBIANS NOW PRESSED CLOSE UPON BORDERS

The following cablegram from official German sources was received early today:

"German Headquarters Report, Nov. 21.—The German troops under Gen. von Koenig have occupied Novipazar, Serbia. Gen. von Gallwitz's army and the right wing of Gen. Boyadoff's Bulgarian army have been fighting for the entrance into Lab Valley, north of Pristina."

"The number of Serbians taken on November 19 rose to 3800, and yesterday more than 4400 were captured."

"On the west front, near the Ypres railway, at Zonnebeke, the Germans succeeded in springing a large mine within the enemy's position. The French have been blasting mines southeast of Souchez and near Combres without success."

"The Germans have succeeded in occupying the positions first and keeping the blasted hole."

"German aviators have bombed railway buildings at Poperinghe and Furnes with success."

"The English supreme commander, in a report of October 15 about the German attack southwest of Loos on October 8, said that 'according to conservative estimates 5000 to 6000 dead Germans were lying before the Anglo-French position. This was freely invented, since the dead, missing and those that later died of their wounds amounted to only 763.'"

TODAY'S SITUATION.
The following cablegram was received today:

"German Headquarters Report, Nov. 22.—Entrance into Lab Valley was forced on both sides of Poduyev yesterday. More than 2670 Serbians were taken prisoner; six cannons, four machine guns and numerous war materials were captured. In the arsenal at Novipazar 50 large mortars, and five cannon of an older type were taken. 'Serbians' rear guards are now near Socarica, Ibar Valley."

"Reputed a feeble Russian advance against Illust cemetery, northwest of Cuernaburg."

"On the west, repulsed between Meuse and Meuse, in Champagne and east of Lunville enemy attacks. Enemy's artillery active."

STROMBOLI IS GROWING WORSE

[Associated Press by Federal Wireless] PALERMO, Italy, Nov. 22.—The eruptions of the volcano of Stromboli, Lipari Isles, are becoming more serious. The sides of the great volcano are cracking and people are fleeing from its vicinity in terror.

Cy. Young, considered one of the greatest baseball players of all time will become a candidate for Treasurer of Turcarinas County, Ohio, on the Republican ticket.

[Associated Press Service by Federal Wireless]

SALONIKI, Greece, Nov. 22.—To force Greece into the war on the side of the Entente Powers, it is planned to establish a "war zone" around the Grecian territory and threaten Greece with starvation, according to a rumor here.

It is said that the Allies are so determined to make Greece declare her intentions, and to punish her for alleged failure to fulfill her treaty obligations with Serbia, that they will carry their commercial blockade to the extent of establishing the new "war zone."

The Greek officials and other leaders express the hope that no such drastic action will be taken. It is held that to cut off the commerce by sea would speedily reduce Greece to want.

Teutons Try To Win Rumania By Promises Of Concessions

ROME, Italy, Nov. 22.—Strong efforts are being made by the Teutons to win Rumania to their side. While Germany and Austria are emphasizing, in their negotiations with Rumania, the hope that King Ferdinand I and his ministers will hold the government neutral, they are also putting forward alternate proposals. They are offering certain concessions to the Rumanians if the country will enter war on the side of the Central Empires.

Italian Troops Advance On Isonzo

ROME, Italy, Nov. 22.—The Italian troops have made important advances on the Isonzo front, bringing hope for a successful prosecution of the Trieste campaign. News today tells of the lines being pushed forward against the Austrians. Especially in the heights northwest of Gorizia the advances noticeable.

London Globe Apologizes, Resumes

LONDON, Eng., Nov. 22.—The London Globe, which has frequently been in trouble with the authorities and which was recently suspended when it printed a story that Kitchener had resigned, was allowed to resume publication today. In today's issue it printed an apology for the Kitchener story, which was published when Kitchener left London for his trip to the Balkans.

Last-stand Fight Is Being Made

PARIS, France, Nov. 22.—The report that the Serbians had won a definite victory not far from Nish has now been confirmed. Twenty-five miles south of Nish, on the Nish-Saloniki railroad, a victory has been won over the Bulgarians. The British and French troops are advancing slowly along this railroad, clearing it of the enemy and repairing the line as they proceed.

KENTUCKIAN OFFERS POSSUM AND BEAR FOR WILSON BRIDAL FEAST

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A letter that reached the executive offices recently was from W. T. Hodges of Campbellsville, Ky., who offered to supply a wild animal menu for the Wilson-Galt wedding feast. He wrote:

"For a wild animal dinner in the White House I can furnish 500 opossums at 50 cents to $1 each; one pair of rice tame baby black bears, $50 each, $100 per pair; can be handled without danger. This lot of animals is in fine condition. Your order shall have prompt attention."

White House attaches thought Col. Roosevelt might like to dine on tame bear, but they said they believed President Wilson will continue his practice of eating farm or range animals.
